BTF Members Sticking with the Union

Ninety-nine percent of BTF members have decided to stick with their union and have signed recommitment cards!

The recommitment campaign, which was organized by BTF and NYSUT, was conducted from March through August through the efforts of BTF delegates and officers as well as the NYSUT Member Organizing Institute (MOI).

During the campaign, MOI participants visited homes of members throughout Western New York and discussed the implications of the Janus vs. AFSCME Supreme Court decision that went against unions in late June.

Under the Janus ruling, unions can no longer charge a fair-share fee to nonmembers for the representation the unions provide. The fair-share fee was a portion of dues charged to non-members to cover the costs associated with representation. The goal of the Janus case by our enemies was to cripple labor unions and weaken workers' rights.

The opposite occurred at the BTF and other public sector bargaining units across New York State. The Janus case actually strengthened the solidarity among our members.

Your dues pay for the cost of the following:

- Negotiating contracts that provide better pay, good benefits, and a secure retirement
- Providing legal support to help members defend their rights and enforce their contracts

- Providing professional development, training conferences, and assistance with certifications for members
- Amplifying our voice and advocating for our profession in the media and online
- Fighting to ensure our voice is heard in the halls of power
- Providing an office with a full time staff that Buffalo teachers can turn to when the need arises
- Providing NYSUT regional offices with the resources and technical infrastructure to support locals like the BTF
- Partnering with state and national unions to amplify our voice and defend our values

Employees who are not members of the BTF are not eligible to vote or run in elections for the BTF Executive Committee or Council of Delegates. Non-members are also ineligible to participate in committees and have no say in ratifying collective bargaining agreements.

Non-members also cannot vote or run in elections of any of our affiliates: New York State United Teachers (NYSUT), National Education Association (NEA), and the American Federation of Teachers (AFT).

Non-members are also unable to take advantage of many other union-sponsored benefits.

A Celebration of the Life of Tom Pisa

Thomas J. Pisa always will be remembered for his hard work and dedication to the Buffalo Teachers Federation and its members.

Tom, as he preferred to be called, was the past president of the Buffalo Teachers Federation. He was elected president in 1970 and served for 11 years. He was the BTF's first full-time release president. Tom passed away on June 1st after a lengthy illness.

Many of his contributions to the BTF were recalled on September 22nd at a memorial service held at Blessed Sacrament Church on Delaware Avenue in Buffalo that was attended by about 200 people.

What many teachers working today don't know is just how much Tom shaped the BTF and how he laid the foundation for it to become the strong union it is today.

During the Pisa years, the BTF negotiated the Supplemental Benefit Fund with the District as well as the Sick Leave Bank. Additional personal leave days were negotiated, from two to five, as was a new pay warrant schedule which eliminated a three-week interval of paychecks twice during the year. The Extended Pay Plan was also negotiated during Pisa's time in office.

Furthermore, Tom obtained the District's agreement to begin the Buffalo Teacher Center and began publishing the Provocator.

These are just a few of the positive changes that happened under Tom Pisa's leadership. In addition to working hard for the teachers of Buffalo, Tom Pisa was a gentle soul with a kind heart. When he was jailed after the 1976 strike, he sent two members of the BTF staff grocery shopping for another inmate whose wife and children did not have food in their home. In fact, his only complaint about being jailed was that he regretted missing the Blizzard of '77.

Tom left his beloved city in 1981 to move to Albany after being elected president of the New York Education Association (NYEA), later to become NEA-NY. While in Albany, his support for the BTF never wavered. He returned to Buffalo often while president of our state affiliate.

Without the toil and sweat from early leaders like Tom Pisa, we wouldn't have many of the provisions in our contract that we do. We appreciate all that he did during his 11 years as BTF president.

"We will never forget you", BTF President Phil Rumore said during the service. "Goodbye, my friend."

Not Now, Not Ever

“The world is a dangerous place, not because of those who do evil, but because of those who look on and do nothing” .. Albert Einstein

Buffalo teachers never “look on and do nothing”; however, now more than in many, many years, we must continue to reach out, join together, organize, battle and prevail over the forces that would destroy us and undermine all that we have fought to accomplish.

We have done it in the past and, yes, we are doing it again.

Buffalo teacher after teacher is defying the attempts of the union-busting billionaires, hedge funders and politicians who want to see the BTF and all unions eliminated.

Buffalo teachers are re-signing membership forms to show the District (especially in our upcoming negotiations) and the public our unwavering solidarity. Buffalo teachers, as always, are not standing by doing nothing. We are working together to ensure that all Buffalo teachers renew their commitment to each other with their BTF membership.

Buffalo teachers have committed to vote and to get their friends and families to vote in November.

Buffalo teachers are speaking out about security issues and making important school safety recommendations to ensure that our schools are safe.

Buffalo teachers are participating in the Opt-out movement to end the meaningless and detrimental over-testing of our students.

We have not, and have never, looked on and done nothing; however, we must continue to reach out to and mobilize our families and friends about the important issues and challenges we all confront. We need to ensure that they, too, do not just look on but rather join with us to fight against those who would undermine all that we have fought for and that we seek to accomplish on behalf of our students, community, state and, yes, our country.

Yes, the issues are formidable; but together, so are we. We never give up!

BTF Thanked for Contribution to STEAM Camp

On behalf of the Board of Directors, children, and families enrolled in the STEAM Camp, thank you! We are truly appreciative for the $300 sponsorship from the BTF.

The 57 participants and parents were very engaged and busy this summer. In keeping with the focus of our camp, all program youth participated in hands-on learning activities that related to weekly STEAM themes. The themes included: Science: Cool Science; Technology: Simple Machines; Engineering: Build It; Art: Bring out the Artist in Me; Math: Music, Math and More!

While the site-based activities were stimulating, it was important that the campers had a range of experiences throughout their six weeks that also aligned with a STEAM theme. The campers attended six field trips which consisted of the Science Museum, Buffalo Zoo, Freedom Wall (students met artist and created their own Freedom Wall mini-book), Buffalo and Erie County Library (designed STEAM related programming), UniverSoul Circus and Fantasy Island (provided a STEAM curriculum that related to the amusement park).

The campers also experienced intergenerational programming through their community service project. The campers participated in a one-day service project with senior citizens at the Clemons Hodge Center. They read with the seniors, made arts and crafts, had lunch and played board games.

The staff continued to stress the value of family and encouraged parent participation. Parents attended the opening orientation, field trips, volunteered at the camp and attended the closing STEAM Showcase.

Because of your support, First Shiloh Youth Foundation was able to leverage financial support from the following organizations: Say Yes Buffalo, Council

BTF Donates $250 to Kevin Guest House

Thank you for your support of Kevin Guest House. Your donation in the amount of $250 will help us continue to serve the 1,200 guests each year that travel for specialized care at area medical centers.

It is through the generosity of our community, and support from donors and friends like you, that allows Kevin Guest House to help ease the financial and emotional stress that often accompanies serious illness. We are proud to be America's first healthcare hospitality house, providing a home away from home since 1972, for more than 53,000 patients and families traveling to Buffalo for critical medical care.

Thank you for believing in Kevin Guest House and our mission.

Sincerely,
Lynsey Zimdahl Weaver
Executive Director

BTF Sponsors TOY's 2018 Brew Bash

On behalf of the Board and staff at Theatre of Youth (TOY), thank you for your generous sponsorship of $450 for TOY's 2018 Brew Bash.

This year's Brew Bash helped raise over $30,000 towards our mission of providing WNY youth with quality professional theatre experiences that spark imaginations and encourage creative confidence.

To more fully understand the tangible benefits children receive from programming like Theatres of Youth, consider the following quote from an article by Jay P. Greene, Distinguished Professor of Education Reform at the University of Arkansas:

"The surprising result is that students who received multiple (arts-focused) field trips experienced significantly greater gains on their standardized test scores after the first year than did the control students. If we combine Math and ELA tests, we see a gain of 12.4% of a standard deviation at $p < 0.01$ which translates into roughly 87 additional days of learning."

Children engaged with the arts have a decisive, demonstrable advantage. Your support ensures that we can continue to give all students these opportunities. We are grateful for your partnership with Theatre of Youth.

Thank you for being a champion to the youth of Western New York.

With much gratitude,
Kevin Leary
Managing Director, TOY

NEA Delegates Support Rumore Motion To Fund School Safety Measures

It was a busy summer for BTF delegates who attended national conventions for the National Education Association, (NEA) and the American Federation of Teachers (AFT).

Both affiliates conducted their conventions during July. The NEA Annual Meeting and RA was held in Minneapolis, MN June 30-July 6, and the biennial AFT convention was held in Pittsburgh, PA, July 13-17.

During the conventions, delegates poured over more than 130 new business items during the NEA convention and about 100 during the AFT meeting.

Phillip Rumore, president of the BTF, introduced a resolution at the NEA convention calling for the organization to “commend and support the courageous students fighting for safe schools and that NEA, within its existing budget, ensure the safety of our students and personnel.”

The resolution, passed unanimously by the delegate body, called for additional state and local funding to:

- Employ at least one armed or unarmed officer in each school
- Hire more school counselors, social workers, school psychologists, attendance teachers, and other support personnel
- Purchase crisis tapelines or apps so students could access counselors confidentially to report bullying, violence and threats

- Train personnel and parents to detect the early warning signs that a student may become violent

- Support a mandated, comprehensive background check to prevent those found guilty of violent crimes or domestic violence from purchasing or possessing a gun.

Rumore said since the Sandy Hook School shooting, there have been more than 239 school shootings with 438 people shot and 138 murdered in schools and on school grounds.

Other highlights of the NEA convention:

- Sue Raichilson, a Riverside High School Business teacher and member of the BTF Executive Committee, also addressed the NEA delegates. Accompanied at the microphone by her granddaughter, she urged delegates to oppose a resolution “to limit aid to Israel used to detain, interrogate, abuse and imprison Palestinian children in Israel’s adult military courts.” She said the resolution unfairly represented Israel and did not address human rights violations against Israel.

- Desiree Breckenridge-Barnes, a teacher at Emerson Culinary Institute, was acknowledged for representing the NEA at a School to Prison Pipeline national convention.

- Lynn Garcia, a history teacher at Hutch Tech and member of the BTF Executive Committee, was elected vice president of the NEA Women’s Caucus.

1. Concerned about violence in our schools, BTF President Phil Rumore moves forward a resolution before the NEA delegation. 2. Accompanied by her granddaughter, Sue Raichilson speaks against a proposed resolution.

BTF Proudly Marching in Area Parades

Everyone loves a parade, especially in the city of Buffalo where many are held each year. Thousands of people line the streets, cheering for their favorite participants.

For the past two years, the BTF Public Relations Committee, co-chaired by Ruyvette Townsend; Community Engagement Committee, headed by Eve Shippens Nieves and the Minority Committee, chaired by Sophia Howard Johnson, have joined forces to participate in some of the parades.

Proudly carrying the BTF banner and chanting to the crowds, the BTF has been met with cheers and waves from the crowds.

Retirement Prep Classes Are Available

Are you planning on retiring this year or in the near future?

If your answer is yes, make sure you are prepared for that glorious day!

The New York State Teachers Retirement System (NYSTRS) can answer your questions and prepare you for retirement through its Pension & Retirement Education Program (PREP) seminars.

These PREP sessions are available at various locations around the state throughout the year. The fall PREP schedule can be found by opening the PREP Schedule accordion on the Pension & Retirement Education Program page at NYSTRS.org.

While most sessions fill up quickly, there are often extra seats at seminars held at Erie 1 BOCES, located in West Seneca.

This location will host PREP sessions on Wednesday, November 14 and Thursday, December 13.

PREP sessions are designed to help members of all ages prepare for retirement. Seminars are held from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., with registration beginning at 8 a.m. There is no cost to attend and attendees are welcome to bring a guest. Thousands of members attend PREP sessions each year and the feedback is overwhelmingly positive.

Reservations can be made by calling (800) 348-7298, Ext. 6180. Members with a MyNYSTRS account can reserve their spot online. Instructions are located on PREP page at NYSTRS.org

The first parade the BTF participated in this year was the Buffalo Pride Parade in the Allentown area. The Juneteenth Festival on the east side followed in June. Although the BTF has had a table at this event for many years, it's fairly new in the parade.

In August, the BTF marched in the Puerto Rican and Hispanic Day Parade on the west side of Buffalo. And on September 3, the BTF participated in the Labor Day Parade, the largest of the events, which was held in South Buffalo.

Dozens of labor unions turned out to march in the parade in a show of solidarity following the recent Supreme Court decision in the Janus case which eliminates mandated agency fees for employees who have not joined their union.

Once again the BTF marchers distributed backpacks and candy to children along the parade routes.

All BTF members are invited and urged to participate in the parades and proudly shout, "We are the BTF".

History Teacher Wins Fulbright Global Grant

Molly Eldridge, a Social Studies teacher at Newcomer Academy, has been accepted into the Fulbright Teachers for Global Classrooms program.

Only 76 teachers nationwide were selected for the program which will include an online class and travel abroad in the summer of 2019 as well as completing a capstone project on global education.

"I applied to the program because I want to become more knowledgeable in global education so that I can create a culturally responsive classroom",

Eldridge explained.

"In addition, our classrooms in Buffalo are becoming increasingly diverse as the world is becoming increasingly interdependent and interconnected. My goal in participating in the program is to help my students become globally competent so that they can succeed in becoming global citizens and create meaningful change in the world", said Eldridge.

Our sincere congratulations go out to Ms. Eldridge for being accepted into this prestigious program.

Teacher Spends Summer In Peru

While some teachers were enjoying their summer break lying on the beach, travelling, or just being home, one BPS teacher was helping children in a faraway land.

Charlotte Watson-Wales, an English teacher at East Community High School, and her daughter Makayla, a senior majoring in Spanish and Speech and Hearing at the University of Buffalo, spent a good portion of their summer teaching in Peru.

They were volunteers for the International Volunteer HQ program where they were assigned to teach English in Pachacutec, Peru. Five days a week they took a public bus to a private or public school where they worked with children in grades 3-8. On Saturdays they volunteered at an English language institute sponsored by IVHQ where anyone, no matter what age, could come to learn English.

"It was quite the experience teaching children whose first language is Spanish and already know the importance of being bilingual", Mrs. Watson-Wales said. "Some of the students came to school an hour early for their English lessons and they were very attentive to their volunteer teachers; the rest of the students received English lessons during the regular school day when the volunteers pushed into their classes."

Both mother and daughter also volunteered at the cancer hospital in Lima where they gave a mini-lesson on using sanitary methods while preparing food.

While in Peru, they lived with a Peruvian family and completely immersed themselves in the Peruvian culture. The family provided room, board, and a wonderful introduction to Peruvian life. They walked just about everywhere they went or took public transportation which, in and of itself, was truly an adventure.

When they weren't working, they took time to visit the area and enjoy some of the attractions including historical Lima, sand boarding in Huacahina, Inca salt mines, ancient churches, Barranco (Lima's artistic district), and Machu Picchu.

BTF Joins Poor People's Campaign

Fifty years ago, Rev. Martin Luther King, Jr. called for a moral revolution to combat poverty in America. He called it the Poor People's Campaign, but it never got off the ground because Dr. King was assassinated before it took hold.

For about a year now, the Poor People's Campaign has made a comeback throughout the state and the Buffalo Teachers Federation is joining the revolution.

The BTF's Community Engagement Committee, co-chaired by Eve Shippens-Nieves, and the Ethnic Minority Committee, co-chaired by Sophia Howard Johnson, are actively working to make Dr. King's dream come true.

The two committees are working with many organizations in the fight against poverty, but primarily with Citizens for Economic Justice (CEJ), which has been in the forefront of the movement locally.

According to Rev. Kirk Laubenstein, executive director of the CEJ, his organization became involved in the movement last October when a group from Buffalo went to Binghamton, NY to connect with activists from across the state.

CEJ also participated in protests in Albany and in Washington, DC.

"Our goal is to change the narrative in the war on poverty," Laubenstein said.

"Right now the narrative is that you have to pull yourself up by your bootstrap."

He said the movement is based on ending racism, poverty, and ecological devastation.

"The real push is to bring that to the fore and get the American public involved. Now is the time to come together and stand united to push back. We need to fund our schools, provide good housing, good jobs, and to take care of the planet because it is the only one we have", Lubenstein explained.

BELOW: Sophia Howard Johnson, co-chair of the BTF Ethnic Minority Committee and David Cates, retired BEST member, attend a protest march in Washington, DC

Currently, the Poor People's Campaign is focused on registering voters. Volunteers are going door-to-door in Buffalo neighborhoods registering eligible citizens.

"What I want to do is galvanize folks and do political education. Not only voting and holding elected officials accountable, but getting marginalized people engaged in the political process. If you're not engaged, you are left out of the equation," Laubenstein explained.

In November, Shippens-Nieves and Howard Johnson will join Laubenstein and other Western New Yorkers in Stony Brook, NY to discuss the next steps for the Poor People's Campaign.

Teachers interested in participating in the Poor People's Campaign can attend. Contact Eve Shippens-Nieves or Sophia Howard Johnson or attend a meeting of the Minority or Community Involvement Committees.

Supplemental Benefit Fund is There for You

The Supplemental Benefit Fund, was established at the start of the second semester in the 1973-74 school year. When it began, the Board agreed to pay $25 into the fund for each full-time equivalent teacher. The amount has steadily increased through the years but was frozen for 12 years after the previous contract expired in 2004. A negotiated benefit, the SBF was established under former BTF president Tom Pisa and exists thanks to Article XXVI, paragraph G of the collective bargaining agreement. Under the guidance of its director, David Walker, the SBF has managed to invest its funds and now pays out far more than it takes in. Being able to maintain such benefits is truly the hallmark of a successful program. Besides Walker, four support staff work in the SBF office, located in the basement of BTF headquarters on Porter Avenue. Five trustees, including BTF President Phil Rumore, define and set the policies for the SBF. The other trustees are BTF members Maria Baker, Joel Mercado, Sue Raichilson, and Ruyvette Townsend.

Teachers receive dental and optical benefits courtesy of the Supplemental Benefit Fund and also can get $2 back on every prescription at the end of the calendar year up to $100 per family member annually. During negotiations for the contract ratified October 17, 2016, President Rumore made the case that the SBF had not been able to raise dental and optical benefits for members in 12 years but that those costs had escalated greatly. The BTF secured a $25 increase into the fund for each full-time equivalent teacher in each of the three years of the contract as well as a $350,000 one-time payment. Even with optical exams, two pairs of glasses in a two-year period, dental work, and prescription rebates, the well-managed fund not only is solvent, but was finally able to increase dental benefits in January 2017 and all benefits in July 2018. Additional increases are expected this school year. This benefit, negotiated for you by your union, is enjoyed and appreciated by many teachers in the district. If you have any questions about your supplemental benefits, contact your delegate chair or call us at the BTF.
